

Train-The-Trainer

This program is for companies who want to train internal instructors to teach financial literacy to company managers and employees. Train-the-trainer saves costs for companies with large audiences to train and can be especially effective for companies that want to improve the visibility and communication/teaching capability of its finance professionals.

Participants will learn the underlying principles of experiential learning and how to apply them to our financial literacy training programs. They will also learn to lead all the activities, debriefs and teaching sections of each program.

Participants are given student materials, instructor guides, and online programs to study in preparation for train-the-trainer sessions. Training sessions last from 3 to 7 days depending on the extent of content being taught. The sessions are conducted by an experienced Stratactics trainer who demonstrates how to teach each section and supervises practice sessions for the trainees. Students will then conduct pilot training sessions for employees of their company with coaching from a Stratactics instructor.

Key Learning Points:

- Principles of experiential learning
- Core program principles to be taught
- Teaching in different modes
- Leading activities
- Leading debrief sessions
- Discovery versus giving answers
- Answering questions
- Dealing with disruptive students

For more information call 303-666-1095 or visit us at www.stratactics.com

